

Hello. I am a adoptee from New York....after 15 years of searching for my birthfamily..I reached a virtual dead end. I was searching for my birthmother and brother and sister. If it was not for the help of Chris Lee and the Kinsolving staff..I would have never been reunited with my family. I have a blessed relationship with my mother. She treated me as if I had never been apart from her for 30 years. I also am slowly getting to know my siblings.

Most of my aunts and uncles are deceased..as well as my grandparents....but, I have 2 Aunts and one Uncle remaining. That makes me the luckiest girl in the world as everyone has been so accepting of me. I grew up without parents for over 18 years. My adoptive family surrendered me back to the State at 13 years old. I never bonded with my adoptive mother and was abused by her. So, to finally have my identity back....and have formed a relationship with my Mom is a blessing from God.....and a little angel whose name is Christine Lee of Kinsolving Investigations.

Chris and her staff were very professional at all times....she made no promises she could not keep....and her response to me was very timely. She found my family in less than seven days. No one else was able to help me as I had no name to go on..I had been listed on several registries online....to no avail. I was never found. My mother never owned a computer and sadly knew nothing about the State or Online Registries...as these are not advertised. I am just a average person with limited means....but, the money was not a issue.....it was just a means to a end; as well as a bright beginning. I am so glad I hired Chris Lee when I did...my family has alot of bad medical history; my 46 year old uncle just passed away last year.....my mother could be next as she is ill as well. If I waited, I may not have had the chance to meet my mother and my children would not have known their grandmother.

So, god bless you Chris....and thank you from the bottom of my heart....for all the happy memories I now have and continue to build upon with my Mom.

Please post this in the Vanguard and you may use me for a reference any time you wish!!!

GSW

New York

By all means please do give my email as a reference. I have referred two people since you found for me. Be sure to give to those most uncertain, cautious, checked everything out person...like me....but found out you do what you say... Period. I honestly believed I would go to my grave never have accomplishing this, and I am a determined person who has accomplished most everything I wanted. Now I'm down to just the Masters Degree...My piece of mind was worth every penny charged! Thank you!
KL
FL

Dear Chris, I would be more than happy to give reference. Please feel free to pass along my email address. I want to tell every adoptee I know that it is WORTH having their search done if they are running into dead ends. What I have gotten is priceless and my new found birthmother would agree. We are all just amazed at how you were able to accomplish it!

Also, I am planning to drive up to New Jersey in a few weeks to see my new family. I will go right through Charlotte. I would love to stop for a few minutes and express my gratitude in person and give you a reunion picture for your newsletter. Is that okay with you? Let me know! Thanks for everything.

MB -TN

Hi Chris, I want you to know that everything turned out wonderfully. As you predicted, there was no doubt whatsoever once we spoke and emailed pictures.

I know you've been in this business a long time and you've probably seen everything but I am angry to find out all the lies she and I were both told "for our own good". The details were changed just enough to keep us from finding each other. The thing that makes me the maddest, however, is that we BOTH contacted the States of Tenn. and Ga. and we were BOTH told that there had been no contact from the other party. She had left a letter in my file in Tenn. and I left information there as well but no one put us together. We lost a lot of years that way.

Have you seen this happen before? I think it is an outrage!

I don't know how you did it, Chris, but your work has changed a lot of lives. Both of us searched for 20 years without success and you were able to resolve it. She is flying to Atlanta next Monday to meet me! Thanks so much for everything and best wishes to you. I'll never forget you.

MB/TN

Things continue to go fabulously, chris. particularly with my birth father. I'm hoping to meet him next month and to meet my birth mother in march. this was without a doubt the best expenditure of $ in my life. Thank you!
TS/fl

Chris
How are you - I have spoken to everyone - numerous times - next month I will be meeting them. My sister is worried that this is the final closing item that our mother has wanted - and since her health is not good that this could make her to stop fighting - but they want to go thru with her meeting me, because it is what she has always wanted.
I'll keep you posted - thank you again for all your help.
MF - CT

Hi Chris-

I finally called my Bmom and it went even better than I expected!! She is wonderful and was very happy that I contacted her. We have talked on the phone a few times and exchanged pictures. I just got her pictures yesterday! It is sooo amazing to look at a picture of someone that looks like me! She also included a picture of my Bdad, who I really look a lot alike. The real bombshell, however, is that she sent a picture of her Mother who I look exactly like. We are also planning to meet face to face soon. This is all so exciting and I am so happy that it finally happened. Thank you so much for making it possible for me. I would have never found her without you. You work magic!! I will keep you posted on how it goes.

Thanks,

SW/PA

Talked with my birthmom - twice yesterday - and we made plans to get together this weekend (by telephone) and possibly meet in person later. To say she was surprised is a profound understatement. She had always wanted to try to find me, but feared she would interfere - thinking perhaps that I was never told I was adopted. A fascinating conversation, although probably not out of the ordinary for your line of work. Will send more later. Again, many thanks,
RP/NC

Chris

I contacted today - the entire family knows about me and she and her my real sister have been looking for me. She was told that they would not change my name so had no reason to look for some other name.

My father was her second husband. She had 1 son with the first - he lives in CT and another daughter with the second husband. She seemed really nice. She asked if I hated her for giving me up..We are going to exchange some e-mails to get to know each other. She asked if I would be able to get to the point to meeting her someday. We'll see I do not want to rush into this too fast.

Thank you for all your help I will keep you posted on how it goes.

MF/CT

Thanks for you note. I have found my birth son, thanks to Chris and her help. Using a telephone number and identifying information from Chris I was able to contact him, talk to him (using the script Chris gave me!!) and eventually met him in person. That was three years ago!! He has since moved into the same city (due to job transfer) and actually lives about 2 miles from our home now.

We (I, my husband who is not his father, and our three children) only see him every few months but that is due to his active life and not to problems between us. Our children love him very much and have asked if it's OK to call him their brother, not their half brother!!

He is a very special person and I'm so grateful to his mom and dad for giving him the loving household he grew up in and the character and ethics I have tried to teach the other three children I have been blessed with.

He and I are getting to know one another slowly, but that's OK - there's no model for our relationship and we are just taking it one meeting at the time.

Thank you Chris and your staff. My life is so improved since finding him. I no longer worry about him.

BW/FL

Your service was wonderful in finding my birthmother so quickly as I had no information hardly to go by. Your cost waas VERY resonable and fair in your practices of collecting the money. Your data was so thourough I couldn't believe all of the kinfolk you found besides my birthmother.

I, with the help of my husband to make the initial call, have not been able to reach her. I believe she works odd hours and we are trying at the wrong time. I want to contact her when my 2 kiddos are not around. I think I may now try writing her a letter. If I could ask for your advice as how to best going about contacting her. I know that by phone I should have someone,no me. contact her first. However since we are having trouble catching her at home,i was thinking of writing a letter,myself. In all of your experiance with this step what can you reccommend for me?

When you first located her I was going thru some difficult times which I have now resolved thru counseling. Some of my problems had to do with finding her and filling in a big hole I felt. I am now at a point where I can emotionally face whatever comes out of this good or bad, because I don't know how sh feels,who she's told...on and on. I want her to know,I want nothing from her but to make contact and say HI! make sure she knows I'm not looking for a replacement Mom just some connection if she wants it. If she dosen't want to face this or deal with it...I'm emotionally prepared. I feel good with just the information I got from ya'll. Ya'll provide such a wonderful and helpful service for those like me and for Birthmothers looking for their child I say, hats off to you and your organization for all you do for people searching. It's very hard to do it yourself...I tried before finding you. You were God sent and I thank Him for that. I'll report more when we actually do make contact. Just finding out she was still living and all of the information you supplied me with made a large portion of that missing and wondering go away. I tell anyone I know who is in the same situation about your service and will continute to. Thank you again.I can't express my gratitide.

Sincerely,
AJ/LA

Hi, Chris. I wanted to give you an update on my new family.

My husband and I visited my aunt in NC, last weekend-- many tears and hugs. We shared pictures and I got to meet one of my cousins and her daughter. They are wonderful people and were delighted to have me back in the family. I talk to my two brothers regularly and we have a family vacation planned for this June. My brothers and I hope to get together before then. My birth mother's husband has also been in contact with me and refers to me as his step-daughter-- He's the one organizing the vacation this summer. Turns out, 2 of his golfing buddies used to work with my husband!

I could never have imagined such a happy reunion. This experience has given me a sense of self and belonging that I never had, and I can never thank you enough for finding my birth family. All of us deeply regret that my birth mother passed away before I found her, but my aunt and step-father have told me that she would have loved to know me. I wish all adoptees could have the experience at reunion that I have had-- including the support and understanding of my adoptive mother that has meant so much.

Happy New Year!

KJ/NC

Chris,

I spoke with my birthmother this morning; she was thrilled to hear from me and volunteered most of the information that I was prepared to ask her. I couldn't have planned a more perfect initial conversation to have with my birthmother. Thanks so much for getting us started... I think that she and I will have much more to discuss in the future. It turns out that I come from a long line of strong women, which comes as no surprise to all that know me. Again, I appreciate the service that you provide; I only wish that everyone who searches for their birthfamilies could have the incredibly positive experience that I have enjoyed... at least from the outset.

Have a good weekend,

ED/NC

Hi, thanks for all your help. Of course he couldn't wait and he called her yesterday. They talked a while she was very interested to hear from him just a little skeptical that he was who he was supposed to be. She took his number and they decided to let it sink in and talk again at a later date.

I'll fill you in more later. Also she never had any other kids that one was a step child. She was indeed told she'd never be able to find him as you said.

MC/NC

Hi Chris!

Thanks again so much for finding my half sister! I apologize for the delay in getting back with you to say that of course you can use me as a reference. I have kept your e-mail in my new mail for ages now meaning to write you back. Actually, what is prompting me to write you at this moment is in part prompted by questions my half sibling is asking about this whole search process. First of all, let me say that it is amazing how much this half sibling looks like my mom in the pictures she sent me. I think she looks more like mama than any of my full sisters. My mom and my half sibling have now met in person and I still look forward to meeting her. We e-mail regularly. It has been a lot of fun.

I could never doubt it after seeing her pictures anyway. I will forever be grateful for your detective expertise.

Thanks again, Chris.

JD/NC

Greetings!

First, many many thanks for all your help in my search. I am very grateful to you and whoever else made this possible.

I have made contact! I spoke with my birthmother very briefly on December 22. I know, Chris, you said wait till after the holidays. Well.....NOPE! It was a three minute call which I started with "Hello my name is You don't know me but I'd like to say thank you." She was quite shaken when I revealed my birthdate, told me her husband knew but her kids didn't. She took my phone number, and I asked if it would be okay if I wrote a letter. She said it would. There were a few more sentences....but that's about the gist of it!

She called BACK! Christmas Eve, to thank ME for handling the first call so gingerly. She wanted to tell me that she does want to know me, and she is going to tell her (adult) children. She is so glad to hear that I am alright. We talked for about 1/2 hour...it was hard to hang up. But the door is open for future communication. I mailed her a letter on New Year's Eve, and am currently awaiting a reply.

Wouldn't have happened without you - or it may have taken so long I'd be COMPLETELY nuts. So again, many thanks.

Hope you had a wonderful holiday season. You certainly gave me the best Christmas present of my life!

Best wishes for a happy and prosperous and peaceful New Year!

KB/VA

Dear Ms. Lee:

My husband recently told me that you wanted to use me as a reference, (I think) , he erased the email before I could read it.

I would be more than happy to help you out with anything.

I'll give you an update on my daughter and I.

We are having a great time together. We talk everyday. She is a wonderful person and we have become good friends.

Her parents are a little more accepting now. She still have problems of guilt about spending time with me and how it hurts her Mom and Dad. But in time, I hope it will get easier on everyone.

It's been such a year. My husband had throat cancer surgery in January 2001 and you found my daughter in March -so today my husband is doing very well and as far as I can say about myself is that I had two blessings this year. My husband is doing great and my birth daughter.

Thanks for everything - and wishing everyone at Kinsolving a Happy & Healthy New Year.

Sincerely,

MW/ PA

Dear Chris,

You are more than welcome to give prospective clients my email/home phone number for references, as I feel greatly indebted to you and would love to tell someone how much you helped me.

Sincerely,

JV - NY

Chris,

I'm sorry i didn't email you sooner to let you know how well my "reunion" with my birth mom went. We haven't met in person yet, but we talk online or on the phone every day and she is so happy that i have found her. Everything went great when i called her for the first time and i found out that she has a six year old daughter too (in addition to her 20 yr old son). I look just exactly like my birth mom and her daughter looks very very similar to what I looked like as a little girl. This is all so exciting to finally know where I came from and who I look like. We plan to meet sometime in late spring or early summer. Thank you again for making all of this possible for us.

Yes, i am willing to have someone email me to ask about kinsolving. I had a great experience with it and I would love to let others know about it and know that you did a great job helping me.

Thank you again and good luck in finding other birth moms/children.

AH
NC

Hello! Well, I called and we talked for 3 hours!!!!!!!!!!!!!! She is receptive after I gave her the shock of her life!!!!!!!!!!!!!! LOL....If you have time, give me a call and I will tell you about it.....Thank you sooooo much Chris.

BL/NC

Chris.....thank you for your input.....I gathered emotions and courage and called her.....it was her.....she knew as soon as I said the words...I was born.....didnt even have to give the date.....I was very careful to have her give me information, and never asked her anything yet so far.....she said she is going to call me back in about an hour.....and she said....."bye bye sweetheart". Is that cool or what??? Thank you for being my brick!!!!!!!!!!

SG/VA

Thank you for the search. My birthmom and I talk on the phone and email even more. She plans to come over here from Dallas to California the end of the month. There is something in the genes. With the pictures she sent everyone call tell that she is my mom.

I still haven't told my adoptive family that I know who and where my birth mom is. I'm going to deal with one situation at time. Do you have any insight on how to deal with the adoptives?

As loving and caring my adoptive parents are, there's always been a hole in the middle of my chest where something was missing. Now that seems to be healing.

SH/AL

p.s. I sent your url to severel many people who should be contacting you

Hi Chris,

I just wanted to update you on my reunion status. It continues to be a fairly positive experience. I stay in close contact with my bbrothers and bsister and their families. We have visited them several times and even vacationed with their family. I am working on relationship with bmother, I have unresolved anger that I didn't realize until I met her. Hopefully that will resolve in time.

Thanks so much for all your help.

Have a great day.

HA
NC

Hi Chris. As requested, I thought I would drop you a follow-up. I have been meaning to do so, and thought as I was typing a response to someone on the Adoptess Mailing list that I would forward it to you...Think it says all that needs to be said. You are The Best and whoever asks for a recommendation...something I rarely do.....even for family(lol)!!!....I will not hesitate in doing so for someone looking for a reputable, professional and experienced PI firm. Again, thank you....

KL/FL

<< Does Anyone Have A Recommendation For A Private Investigator To Help Me Search - I Need Help!!!!

>>

Hi. I never thought I would recommend a Searcher, but after 13 years of looking in FL (very closed State) I did retain Chris Lee of Kinsolving. Let me also say, they are expensive - but IMO worth it. They charge Only if they Find - period...No find No fee....They found within a week my B/Parents and 2 B/B. They provided me names, addresses and in the case of B/M phone number along with some background info of when they divorced and where they had been....

After I received all this info, Chris personally called me and went very detailed over my next actions....which I might add, everything she said...based on responses I received from calling B/M...where dead on. Having the extra knowledge/tips Chris provided made for a "as good as can be expected outcome". My outcome, BTW, was that I called B/M (got the answering machine several times) and followed Chris's tips and B/M responded by being shocked to say the least, but acknowledged that she was my B/M...confirmed everything Chris had told me (2 B/B and B/F whereabouts unknown). We have spoken twice, she lives about 30 minutes away, and perhaps we may meet. Kinsolving does have a website where you can submit the info you have and they will quote a fee. The website is www.kinsolving.com. Best of luck to you.

KL/FL

Hi Chris. I hope all is well with you and your family. I have met my sister and will meet my brother on Sunday....me and my Mom have spent ALOT of time together...me and my sis are getting to know one another..a little sibling rivalry set in for a minute as she felt "jealous" of the new girl around her Mom....:) but, it has all passed.

I am grateful I contacted you when I did.....I had a uncle die last year....and the family has a history of diabetes and heart problems. My mom has serious diabetes.Today she sacred me..had a severe nose bleed after insulin injections; became pale;and her sugar dropped dangerously low. I had to fight back the tears....I am very scared of losing her when we just found each other....but, I am also grateful for any time that God gives us.

We get along like nothing ever happened; strange as that may sound....she has totally taken over her mother hen role.....and I have taken on the worried daughter role..lol. All in all she is a great grandmother to my children.....and that empty feeling i had inside has been fulfilled.

Thanks so much Chris.....!!!!

Love

GW/NYS

Chris...what a whirlwind day this has been. Thank you so much for giving me my life back. I am happily reunited with my birthmom.....she was thrilled.....so, was my brother and sister....i will meet them Sunday..my sister is in north carolina visiting..but, talked to both her and brother today on phone. I spent about 6 hours at my mom's home..and it felt like I had been there all my life. They are so accepting and all said they had been trying to look for me but, did not know how. My mother did nothing but cry and kiss and hug me. You are excellent..and thank you for the great service you provided me and my family. My mother told me who my birthfather is and where he was stationed in 70 or 71....she cant remember his age..but, says she tried to contact him..but, he got sent away.

Thank you so much for all your help. God Bless you!!!!

Love,

GSW/NY

Hi Chris. First let me say that I will refer you to anyone in the adoption triad...I was doing that already before I hired you.....but now....you have brought great meaning and closure to my life.....no dollar amounts could ever do justice to what you do for people. I have searched for 15 years...to no avail. You and your team have done what no others could do....open and unlock that door...that brought me so much pain.

The pain of not knowing who you really are was unbearable now that I got older. I come from a abusive home and never really had a mother....I would dream about my real Mom as a little girl....I used to think that she would come rescue me. Now that I am older....I dont want her to feel any guilt..because I still did well for myself without parents. I must have got that gene from somewhere. :) Now, I just see this as closure..and maybe I can finally let go of all the demons of my past. That would be the nicest gift of all.....it would not have been possible without you. Although I have never met you.....your record and recommendations speak for themselves.....I do not know you....but, I will never forget you; you gave me my history and life back. An angel you are. Thank you.

GSW/NY

Chris,

I wanted to update you but I honestly do not know where to begin! The first picture is at 30 days old; the baby I gave up for adoption. The next is the first time I laid eyes on him after 30 years. And, the next is to show you how much he looks like my son (far right, gray shirt) and my two nephews (two on the left). And the last is our first Christmas together (me on the left, my daughter, my birthson)and of course Santa!

I did everything opposite of what was suggested but I had to do what God was leading me to do. I called on a weekend, I called on a holiday and I called the adoptive parents instead of the birth son. To make a very long story short, my birthson is now a major part of our family. He has accepted me with open arms and my family has done the same with him. It is like we always have been. We are both strong proponents of DNA as he looks and acts SO MUCH like my son, (who is 21) and my daughter (who is 19). They are truly "brothers and sister". In the past 7 months, I have been to Texas to visit him three times and he has been to visit us with his family (my daughter-in-law and two grandchildren). I have had the opportunity to tell EVERYONE who would listen about this miracle reunion.

I have met his adoptive parents and every prayer I prayed for him and them for 30 years was answered. He was loved, cared for, nurtured, and grew up to be a wonderful young man. They are allowing my birthson and I to develop our relationship (not to say that they haven't had some fear and uneasiness) but everything is ok.

Please feel free to give my email address to anyone who may need some convincing or encouragement! Although I am quick to let them know it doesn't always turn out like my story - I still feel everyone has the right to know who their birth parents are and birthparents have a right to know all the answers to their questions.

Thank you so much again for all your help!

Warmly,
SK/VA

Chris, I was in NC last week and came to Charlotte the last day to see my birthson AND HIS ENTIRE FAMILY. I still cannot believe it. I met his mother and sister for lunch and brought along his father's aunt (by marriage), who is also a very dear friend of mine. We went back to his adoptive home to wait for my birthson and his father to meet us.

It was one of the most wonderful moments in my life. His parents are the EUREKA of what a birth mother could possibly hope for. I saw where he lived, all the pictures of him growing up, plus a video of him from the time he was adopted through his first year. His father offered to let me take the video with me and send it back when through.

I wanted to share this with you. It was truly a great day, and I think the parents liked me. His fathers side of the family has been quite threatened by all this. But I am seeing progress, and that is what matters.

Thanks again for your guidance and good counsel.

TJ/NC

Beware of people scamming you on the internet and search groups.

Hi I would like to share my story with you if for no other reason then but to protect one person from falling for the trap of a scammer like I did...

At the age of 15 found out I was preg, in 1972 it was a big deal...I would of loved to have had the chance to raise my baby but that didn't happen so adoption was what took place. I lived in one state sent and was sent to another state to give birth but baby was brought back to my home state to be placed for adoption through state welfare...if you ever want to see a lot of red tape try and deal with two states when you are searching..one will send you to the other....in my searching I had so many doors closed in my face, can't count the times I was told "you signed away your rights" which at that age what do you know about rights..oh I had turned 16 before she was born but still can't imagin any of my children at the age of 16 making that kind of choice..... Through the years I called the adoption office so much they knew me by first name but would not tell me a thing, for all I knew my baby could of been dead..I went back to the home I was placed in to find out it ws closed down...they had gotten busted for doing so illegal adoptions, made front page of local paper in the 80's about selling babies, I was kind of scared for a while mine could of been one sold, well years went by and she turned 18..my case worker told when i was signing the papers "oh by the time she turns 18 she will be knocking on your door!" well that didn't happen..she turned 20...21..at the age of 23 I had been introduced to this new wonderful world of computers!

I found so many search sites and support groups and could finally talk to people that had been a bad girl like myself(I had never known anyone that had placed a child for adoption) well it was so wonderful just to talk to people who know your pain, and get some insight on searching, which was something I did not have a clue about.. I joined so many places that charged you to register..$69.00 here $49.00 there..I posted on every registry I could find and that was ALOT..I used the people who said they could find anyone for $39.00 and on and on and I just knew that would lead her to me... I have married and have a wonderful husband and 4 more children but from having the need to find this first child I neglected my other children and husband...a year ago one summer night I had gone to bed early and my teenage daughter came and woke me and said "Mom you need to come see this email" I said I will get it in the morning she said "No you need to now I think it is a match" Up out of that bed and on a rollercoaster ride of my life I went!! Yes there was email and she had so much info and a site for us to meet at which we did...oh gosh she was so precious! the first thing she told me was how much she loved me and forgave me for giving her away! Made me cry. Well we went from wonderful to living hell in one week. She wanted me online wit her every minute of the day if I wasn't she wanted to know where I had been and why couldn't I just be with her..I gave her my phone # told her to call me collect which she did..... I tried and tried to get her to meet me - she would not, she did send a pic of herself that looked so much like my 3rd daughter and myself everyone said "yep this is her" (she sent it via email) .

I started finding holes in her story she would get dates mixed up she gave me her address I sent her cards and letters they all came back to me..oh she was even preg...that was one of the things in my registry that i hoped I met her before she had married and had children....she knew my favorite color hers was the same it went on and on she even started calling my husband at his job telling him how terrible her life was and she thought he could fix it and it came to a point where she would just want to talk to him and not me online at night..my marriage took a nose dive after 20 years of no problems... I started smelling a rat but my family didn't they kept telling me you have to be careful how you talk to her you are going to make her leave you...well things still just did not add up for me and the state she was born in has open records now and she could get it and prove she was mine with her original birth cert but she refused to do that, she would start screaming at me saying I just didn't trust her. It was horrible so when I had all I could take me my husband drove to the state she said she was from (which I hope I can say it cause she is doing this to lots more women and still uses same state Texas) and searched and searched and there is no such address no such name no such person..we had all the phone calls traced I accepted and they were all from pay phones so there is no way to catch this sick person..well at this point i told my family I couldn't do this anymore I was going to lose my mind. I had joined a support group from my state and told my story to find out this girl is on going and does this all the time to women looking for their child they had placed for adoption. She sends them all pictures of her self and it matches with the women she sends it to..can't figure that out, kind of scary....but in my talking with these women I was given a searcher's email address and told to check them out if I felt like I had tried everything I could do try Kinsolving.

When my birthdaughter turned 21 I was given a searchers # and he said he found her but I was to send my money to a P.O. box and I only had 2 weeks to do this cause he would change his address after 2 weeks..made me not sure of him so I didn't follow through on that one.I'd been had enough - Just another emotional roller coaster in the mix.

I checked out Kinsolving carefully before hiring them which each of you should do. Also before you send your money to anyone, know who they are, ask questions, I spoke to as many adoption boards as possible and they all knew Kinsolving..people everywhere I went had used them or knew someone who had.

I called Mz Chris several times during her search for me and she always talked and calmed me down when I thought she couldn't find for me....which I think she would do for each of you..I have never met her face to face, don't know anything more about her than most of you but do know after 3 months I got the call they had found my daughter for me! Dealing with 2 states all the red tape she found for me!!

I have now met my child (yeah! it was not the devil fromTexas!!!) my child is really a very beautiful and sweet person and yes we have bumps to work out but that is ok..my search is over I can lay down at night and know where all my children are for the first time since having that first baby. And that is a wonderful feeling!

Some have asked me was it worth the money??? I said the only regret I have is I waited so long to do this!...love and blessings to all. A very happy reunited birthmom.

ES/AL