

January 2011 Vol I

Hi, I had you all search for my birth mother last summer, and you found her. I made initial contact, and we talked on the phone a little. It was amazing! I did not talk to her again for a while, and even that was short. I think she is still in shock and processing it all, but I am trying my best to be patient. In the meantime, my birth aunt has reached out to me and has been an angel. I have spoken to her on the phone and through email multiple times and she has even sent me photos of family members and my birth mom...I can not believe it! This journey keeps evolving and it is an amazing one. I cannot thank you enough for giving me the information I needed to start this journey. I hope one day to actually meet my birth mom, but for now just having contact with my birth aunt is amazing enough. The stories, photos and family information she has for me is more than I ever thought I would get. Thank you so much, you have helped to make the missing pieces of my past fit back together in my life...thank you, thank you thank you.

Thank you so much for finding my son for me. I feel so blessed to have been put in touch with you. Also, your phone call advice to me to help me make my first contact with him was very helpful. From the bottom of my heart, thank you so much. Well, I phoned him in November and it went well. Since then we have been in contact by phone and email. We also exchanged pictures. It was my best Christmas present ever when he came to visit me and stayed for six days during Christmas. It all went wonderful and we are planning a summer visit. My life feels complete now and I am so very grateful.

Many Blessings

So I finally called my mom tonight. I said what you wrote below and did use the line of I am your birth daughter. She was very quiet but didn't deny anything. I heard the tv in the background though and asked if it was a good time. She said not really and took my tele # to call me back. She did ask what my exchange was when I gave her my area code. She didn't sound happy or mad. Was more shocked. I figure I'll give her till after the holidays then I will write a letter if she hadn't called back by then. I am sure she will need some time! can't thank you enough for what you provides me. Just knowing who she is had really been so important to me. When I hear back I'll let you know how it goes! CR

In a message dated 11/23/2010 Guess what guys. My birthmom called me at 745 this morning asking if she can call me tonight!! How exciting! I'll update you later :)

So I just had a 2 hour talk with my birthmother. She is wonderful!! We talked like old friends who hadn't spoken in years. She is open to having a friendship and talking. She hasn't told anyone in her life about me so it will take some time for her to figure that side out. But for now I can call her cell and she gave me her email. I'm going to send her some pictures I cant begin to tell you how amazing it feels now. I feel like I'm flying on clouds. To wait so many years...I wish I did this sooner.

Hello Kinsolving

I am writing to say thank you for giving me the background information on my birth mother in October. When you phoned me, I was not expecting it, and was completely surprised. I was confused about how you got new information. I had also recently had a bad experience with a searcher in Ontario and was feeling suspicious - but of course that had nothing to do with you. I just wanted to apologize if I was rude at the time. I want to say thank you so very much. Although I have a birth mother who does not want contact and who will not tell me my birth father's name, your information filled in a lot of gaps for me. I was amazed at how much you found out and it was all accurate. I have been in contact with my birth mother's brother, my uncle, and he has been very kind and given me as much family background and medical information as he could. So again, thank you.

Sincerely and all the best,

KF, Canada
